The latest despatch of the Secretary of State was published in our issue of the 2nd inst. Referring to the protest of the unofficial members Lord Ripon says that his predecessor's despatch appears to have been somewhat misunderstood and to have been thought to involve larger extensions than His Lordship had in mind; and a new scheme is put forward as being adequate to the necessities of the case. This scheme involves the acquisition of a new site adjoining the gaol on which a three storey block containing about 150 separate cells is to be built, all questions as to the re-arrangement and improvement of cent typhoon. While in South latitude, 40 buildings on the existing site being left to the discretion of the Government here. This will involve a cost, we believe, of some $150,000, and as the unofficial members have expressed their willingness to support a moderate extension they can hardly do otherwise than accept the compromise offered. That even $150,000 should be thrown away on such a useless undertaking is much to be regretted, but the colony may congratulate itself on having been saved from a very much larger expenditure. An Angle Chinese Distinary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkone For comprehensiveness and practice -errig his Work stands unrivalled. words which the Chinese have of latey sars been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relationshas imposed upon them, are here given in exterior. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Pauti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto sttained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterised Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration --Chalmers Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Diptionery shout 100.000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 Bing ish words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese chargeters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published; tho student of this difficult language absolutely for dulres enamples to duplay, the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these example this work contains more than five times as many as any other Distionary hitherte pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who the work will be found indispensable to all themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested China it cannot but be invaluable occasion.
